REL5195.01 (& 4190.01)
Religion and Genocide
Prof. Twiss
Summer 2011, Session A
Wednesdays, 2-4:45 p.m.
Dodd Hall 207

Exploration of the ways in which religious ideology, rhetoric, and institutions may contribute to or otherwise support genocidal activity, as well as inquiry into distinctive religious responses to the aftermath of genocide, regarding, for example, interpretation, accountability, reconciliation, and prevention. Particular attention to the interdisciplinary study of the Holocaust, Bosnia, and Rwanda, as well as their comparison. Requirements: at least two seminar presentations, in student teams, and critical engagement throughout the course (50%); and a final research term paper (50%).

Attendance Policy: Students are expected to attend all classes. Excused absences include documented illness, deaths in the family and other documented crises, call to active military duty or jury duty, religious holy days, and official university activities. These absences will be accommodated in a way that does not arbitrarily penalize students who have a valid excuse. Consideration will also be given to students whose dependent children experience serious illness.
Honor Policy: The FSU Academic Honor Policy outlines the university’s expectations for the integrity of students’ academic work, the procedures for resolving alleged violations of those expectations, and the rights and responsibilities of students and faculty members throughout the process. Students are responsible for reading the Academic Honor Policy and for living up their pledge to “be honest and truthful and...[to] strive for personal and institutional integrity at Florida State University” (FSU Academic Policy found at http://dof.fsu.edu/honorpolicy.htm). The policy of the Department of Religion is that all violations of the FSU honor code, even first offenses, will result in a grade of 0 for the assignment and will be reported to the Office of the Dean of the Faculties. Additional sanctions may be imposed by FSU as part of the procedure for resolving academic honor allegations.

Americans with Disabilities Act Requirements: Students with disabilities who need academic accommodations should: (1) register with and provide documentation to the Student Disability Resource Center (SDRC), and (2) bring a letter to the instructor from the SDRC indicating the need for accommodation and what type (this should be done within the first week of class). This syllabus and other class materials are available in alternative format upon request. For more information about service available to FSU students with disabilities, contact: sdrc@admin.fsu.edu, Student Disability Resource Center, 874 Traditions Way, 108 Student Services Building, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-4167, (850) 644-9566 (voice); (850) 644-8504 (TDD).
